

SEEKS TO AMEND
STATE GAME LAW

Measures seeking to recodify and amend the fish and game laws will be submitted to the next Legislature for passage. Mr. J. Quincy Ward, Executive Agent of the Fish and Game Commission, is preparing the new measures with the assistance of the commission, and many changes in the present laws will be asked.

A bill seeking to protect all fur-bearing animals, such as beaver, mink, raccoon, otter, opossum, fox, skunk and muskrat, will be introduced which will make the open season for hunting such animals from November 1 to April 1. The present open season begins in September, and Mr. Ward says that the change is made because the fur of such animals is worth four times as much in November as in September.

A limit of the number of game birds to be bagged in one day is fixed at fifteen, and all violators of the law will be fined not less than $15 for each offense. The open season for killing doves will be from the first of August to the first of September, the number to be killed in one day not to exceed fifteen.

In order to improve the fish conditions, no fishing will be allowed between April 1 and June 1, and the use of artificial bait in the spring will be expressly prohibited. No nets of more than one-half inch mesh, ten feet long, can be used. The use of steel balls in shooting fish is prohibited by the present law, and an amendment prohibiting the use of lead balls will be made. The practice of dynamiting streams for fish is one of the hardest problems that the commission has to deal with, and the new measure will provide that this be made a penitentiary offense. A fine of $25 is imposed by the present law for seining. The fine will be increased to $50 for each offense.

OUR WEEKLY NOVELETTE.

They flew to the left.
They flew to the right.
Until every last snake
Had flown out of sight.

St. Patrick, with his band of chosen men, was driving the snakes out of Ireland. It was one of the busiest days of his life. (See Agnus Clannally's "Busy Days of Busy Saints.") Suddenly, from behind one of the green hills of County Dingaoholey, there darted a poor peasant with his hair flying and his eyes wide with fear.

"St. Patrick!" he shouted. "St. Patrick, stop, for the love of St. Mike. Oh, murther!" (See Isador Lichengobber's "Folk Sayings of Ireland and Elsewhere.")

"Stop!" ordered St. Patrick and the frightened man threw himself at the feet of the good man.

"While you're orderin' the snakes out of ould Ireland, St. Patrick, dear," he begged, "turn to the left a few minutes and drive out the feralul nest of pink an' green sarpiants with yellow whiskers that do be revelin' beyant yonder hill!"

"To the left, you say?" demanded St. Patrick.

"To the left it is, Riverint sir."

St. Patrick leaned over and took a whiff of the fellow's breath.

"Twil take more than a saint to drive those snakes away!" he said with a grim chuckle. "Men, keep on to the right."

THE END.

YOUNG FARMERS ARE TO MEET PRESIDENT WILSON.

When the champion members of the boys' and girls' agricultural clubs reach Washington on December 11, including a number from Kentucky and other Southern States, for a week's stay, they will find an interesting program awaiting them. The President will give a reception to the young farmer experts, attended by many other notable men.

CORTRIGHT METAL SHINGLE
ROOFING SUBSTANTIAL PRODUCT

We hope our readers have been noticing the advertisement of the Cortright Metal Roofing Company, which has appeared in our columns regularly since early this year, and that any of those interested in high grade, substantial roofing have gotten in touch with the Company's local agents, Messrs. Best & Hawkins, Millersburg, Ky.

Cortright Metal Shingles have been in use for more than a quarter of a century, and are giving splendid satisfaction everywhere. (9-1t)

L. & N. TO HAVE ALL-STEEL
EQUIPMENT, INSURING SAFETY.

The Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company is completing arrangements to replace all its old wooden passenger coaches and baggage cars with the latest style of steel coaches now in use on the Pennsylvania system and other big roads in the East.

This announcement was authorized last Wednesday from the general offices of the company, together with the statement that the first steel cars will be ready for use by July or August next year.

FRANKFORT PRISON TO KILL ITS OWN BEEVES

The high cost of living in the prisons of the State has been met by the determination of the State Prison Commission to cut off the middleman's profit on beef, and the experiment of slaughtering cattle will be tried out at the Frankfort Reformatory, in Frankfort, without delay. Warden A. J. Wells has leased a slaughter house in South Frankfort from C. W. Fennell, and has advertised for cattle. Steward John Sinorbus, who is a butcher by trade, will superintend the slaughtering. About six head of cattle a week are required to supply the Frankfort Reformatory. Heretofore, only forequarters have been purchased on the market for fresh meat, and the Commission believe the inmates will get more benefit and variety under the new plan at no greater cost, and probably at much less cost.

ELLERY'S BAND TO PLAY
HERE DECEMBER 20.

Ellery's Band which last summer gave a concert at the Paris Fair Grounds, will return to this city on December 20 for two concerts at the Grand Opera House. Mr. Rudolph Davis, who has had charge of the subscription paper that has been in circulation, reports that almost enough subscriptions have been secured to assure the return of this famous organization which, since its engagement here, has been playing at the National Conservation Exposition at Knoxville, Tenn. The band created quite a sensation here and was highly appreciated by the music loving public of this city. One performance will be given in the afternoon, beginning at 3:30 o'clock, and the second at night, beginning at 8 o'clock. The afternoon performance is arranged for the benefit of the out-of-town persons who desire to attend.
